Erin is the Executive Director at LPCS. She has been with the LPCS since 1999 in a variety of roles, assuming the Executive Director position in 2006. She holds an MSW from UIC's Jane Addams College of Social Work. At LPCS and other organizations, she has provided direct services to people experiencing homelessness, women involved in prostitution, pregnant and parenting teens. At LPCS, she provides leadership and fiscal management to all program and development activities. Through CAEH, she has served on the Executive Committee of the Service Providers Commission, and on the Advocacy Committee. She has also been very involved in the Discharge Planning Committee and Interim Housing Constituency Groups over time. She has consistently been involved in the city's Plan to End Homelessness since its original inception. She is completing a term on the Planning Council and is currently serving on the Coordinated Access Steering Committee.
